

Seniors prove they are simply first class

Pride and teamwork were the key elements that made the class of 1987 a Royal and enthusiastic group. At each rally, the seniors made their voices heard as they led the cheering and yelling. With increasing spirit, they were dominant in class competitions. Led by Hilary Gaines (President), Paul Gamberdella (Vice-President), Holly Nielsen (Secretary), and Dan Meisel (Treasurer), the senior class began planning early for one of the most exciting and memorable parts of their senior year ... senior week. Senior prom and a trip to Disneyland were other highlights of their senior year paid for by the traditional magazine sales with a new twist. The senior class was divided alphabetically into several groups, and each was assigned a group leader to insure active participation. This new method proved extremely successful as the senior class raised a total of $30,000 for an all-time record.

Class participation was essential to the success of the drive but class spirit and enthusiasm did not stop here. Many seniors wore "Royal Wave" senior shirts to display their Royal pride. As an extension of this class unity, the shirts were offered to juniors, sophomores, and freshmen as well. The sale of these shirts resulted in additional funds for the student body and a greater feeling of pride among Royals. When the class of 1987 graduated, they left their mark on the school as an example for future classes to follow.

Acting activities activate amateur actor.

"My dream is to be in a John Hughes movie." Garrett Swann has participated in every school play and musical in the four years he attended San Marcos. Garrett's acting experience has also included several opportunities to perform in productions with Santa Barbara City College.

Dancing and singing in the musicals Hello Dolly and The Most Happy Fella gave him a chance to work with older and more experienced actors. His most recent performance with City College was as the narrator and star in the musical Brighton Beach Memoirs. He played Eugene, whose character portrayed the curious and mischievous Neil Simon when he was young. As most amateurs emulate their favorite actor, so Garrett has developed his style after that of Matthew Broderick, who starred in the original Broadway play. One of Garrett's goals is to meet and someday work with Broderick in person.

In preparation for the many future goals he has set for himself, Garrett plans to transfer to the well-known theatrical department at Los Angeles City College after attending two years at S.B.C.C. In further pursuit of his acting interest, Garrett has helped other young students by teaching Theatre Arts at La Collina Junior High. Garrett sums up the many hours he spent auditioning, rehearsing, and performing, "acting has brought me many experiences and many friends that I doubt any other activity could bring me."

Multi-faceted dancer captures Junior Miss

"Beyond the thrill of being chosen as Santa Barbara's Junior Miss, I will always treasure the memories of the camaraderie and the friendships formed between the girls," commented Santa Barbara's 1987 Junior Miss, Andrea Lommen. Every year, talented girls compete locally in the California Junior Miss Program, a non-profit scholarship organization. It stresses excellence and achievement in senior girls. The girls were judged in five areas: scholastic achievement, poise and appearance, physical fitness, creative and performing arts, and on a judge's interview.

This year's Junior Miss, Andrea Lommen, captivated the audience with her ballet presentation of the Nutcracker Suite. Besides earning her the title of Andrea's Lommen's happiness is obvious after being chosen Santa Barbara's Junior Miss.

Junior Miss, dance has played a large part in Andrea's life. She was a two year member of Marquettes and has been in the Nutcracker ballet for eight years. Also, Andrea choreographed her church youth production, with which the group travelled around the West Coast. Using her dance talent, Andrea landed several roles with the Santa Barbara Repertory Theatre. Andrea also took time out to be in three San Marcos musicals: The Music Man, Oklahoma, and Guys and Dolls. Andrea still managed to fit in study time amongst her other activities, maintaining a 4.0 grade point average.

Andrea said, "I cannot express the pride I feel in representing Santa Barbara. It is an honor that I will never forget."
